East Asian Languages and Cultures

The Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures (EALC) offers programs in the study of East Asian languages, literatures and cultures, including both the traditional and modern periods of their development. Our majors in Chinese, Japanese and Korean offer a solid preparation for graduate study in these areas. They also open up career opportunities in diplomacy, business, law, journalism and higher education.

The majors in Chinese, Japanese and Korean require completion of 24 upper-level units. Specific requirements include one 200-level foundational course, at least two years of language study, and two or more courses in the relevant literary tradition. In addition, prime majors are required to fulfill the EALC capstone requirement and participate in the EALC Senior Symposium.

The minors in Chinese, Japanese and Korean require the completion of 18 units, 9 of which must be at the 300 level or above. Specific requirements normally include the equivalent of one year of language study and two courses in the relevant literary tradition.

Phone: 314-935-4448
Email: ealc@wustl.edu
Website: http://ealc.wustl.edu/

Faculty

Chair
Rebecca Copeland
PhD, Columbia University

Professors
Beata Grant
PhD, Stanford University

Marvin H. Marcus
PhD, University of Michigan

Associate Professors
Lingchei Letty Chen
PhD, Columbia University

Ji-Eun Lee
PhD, Harvard University

Zhao Ma
PhD, Johns Hopkins University

Jamie Newhard
PhD, Columbia University

Assistant Professor
Nathan Vedral
PhD, Harvard University

Professor of the Practice
Virginia S. Marcus
MA, University of Michigan, New York University

Teaching Professors
Mijeong Mimi Kim
EdD, University of San Francisco

Xia Liang
MA, Beijing Normal University

Fengtao Wu
MA, Indiana University Bloomington

Senior Lecturers
Shino Hayashi
MA, University of Wisconsin, University of Minnesota

Judy Zhijun Mu
PhD, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Wei Wang
MA, University of Minnesota, Beijing Language and Culture University

Lecturers
Wenhui Chen
PhD, National Taiwan Normal University

Ke Nie
PhD, Capital Normal University

Zihan Qin
PhD, University of Iowa

Jingyi Wang
PhD, Ohio State University

Professors Emeriti
Robert Hegel
PhD, Columbia University

James C. Shih
PhD, University of California, Berkeley
Richard H. Yang
PhD, New School for Social Research

Betty Pei-shan Yue
MA, Washington University

Majors
With a major in one of the East Asian languages and cultures, a student can expect to gain some proficiency in Chinese, Japanese or Korean, to study the area's literary and cultural landmarks, and to gain familiarity with Asian history and civilizations.

The Majors
For information on the major in Chinese language and culture, visit the Chinese page of this Bulletin.

For information on the major in Japanese language and culture, visit the Japanese page of this Bulletin.

For information on the major in Korean language and culture, visit the Korean page of this Bulletin.

Minors
For information on the minor in Chinese language and culture, visit the Chinese page of this Bulletin.

For information on the minor in Japanese language and culture, visit the Japanese page of this Bulletin.

For information on the minor in Korean language and culture, visit the Korean page of this Bulletin.

Courses
For East Asian Studies courses, visit the East Asian Studies page of this Bulletin.

For Chinese courses, visit the Chinese page of this Bulletin.

For Japanese courses, visit the Japanese page of this Bulletin.

For Korean courses, visit the Korean page of this Bulletin.