Focus

Focus is a special, year-long seminar program open only to matriculating first-year students. Several Focus programs are offered every year, each built around a seminar topic reflecting the Focus faculty member's particular area of expertise. Students in a Focus seminar frequently enroll in a companion course chosen by their professor to encourage exploration of the seminar topic from varying perspectives. A Focus program provides a coherent, group-oriented learning experience with out-of-classroom activities, while still allowing time for electives. Focus seminars change each year and have included such topics as: Law and Society; The Theater as a Living Art; Writers as Readers; The Literary Culture of Modern Ireland; Women in Science; and Cuba: From Colonialism to Communism. Enrollment in each Focus is limited to 16 students to ensure closely-mentored, personalized instruction. All Focus programs constitute integrations and therefore fulfill one of the requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree. Focus programs are open to all Arts & Sciences students, regardless of their intended majors, and complement any major or pre-professional curriculum.

Contact: Trevor Sangrey
Phone: 314-935-7696
Email: tsangrey@wustl.edu
Website: http://college.artsci.wustl.edu

Faculty

Participating Faculty

Stan Braude (http://wubio.wustl.edu/braude)
Professor of the Practice
PhD, University of Michigan
(Biology)

Erin Finneran (http://english.artsci.wustl.edu/Finneran_Erin)
Lecturer
PhD, Washington University
(English)

Robert Henke (http://pad.artsci.wustl.edu/robert_henke)
Professor
PhD, University of California, Berkeley
(Performing Arts)

Dirk M. Killen (http://college.artsci.wustl.edu/dirk_killen)
Associate Dean, College of Arts & Sciences
PhD, Harvard University

Jeffery S. Matthews (http://pad.artsci.wustl.edu/jeffery-matthews)
Professor of the Practice in Drama
MFA, Virginia Commonwealth University
(Performing Arts)

Erin McGlothlin (http://german.wustl.edu/people/mcglothlin_erin)
Associate Professor
PhD, University of Virginia
(German and Jewish Studies)

Chris Shaffer (http://wubio.wustl.edu/people/christopher-shaffer)
Lecturer
PhD, Cornell University
(Biology)

Daniel B. Shea (http://english.artsci.wustl.edu/Daniel_Shea)
Professor Emeritus
PhD, Stanford University
(English)

Anika Walke (http://history.artsci.wustl.edu/anika-walke)
Assistant Professor
PhD, University of California
(History, International and Area Studies)

Kathleen Weston-Hafer (http://wubio.wustl.edu/hafer)
Professor of the Practice
PhD, Washington University
(Biology)

Majors

Focus programs are special year-long seminar programs open to freshman students. There is no major available in this area.

Minors

Focus programs are special year-long seminar programs open to freshman students. There is no minor available in this area.

Courses

L61 Focus 103B International Public Affairs
We live in a complex, fast-paced world. Technological advances and economic interdependence bring us closer together, even as globalization creates new challenges that cannot be solved by one country alone. In this class we will examine the forces that affect competition and cooperation in a globalized world. Students will engage with influential social science literature on these topics, participate in classroom discussion, and take part in classroom activities, such as debates and policymaking simulations, to build a deeper understanding of these theories. In addition, students will work on semester-long policy projects to build practical skills in problem solving, team building and communication. This course is restricted to freshmen in the Global Citizenship program.
Same as L97 IAS 103B
Credit 3 units. A&S IQ: SSC
L61 Focus 1071 Focus: Memory and Memorialization in American Culture
What do Americans remember, and what do we choose to forget? Who decides? And what do our ever-proliferating memorials and at times obsessive acts of memorialization say about us? In this course, we study cultural memory in the United States from the Civil War to September 11, 2001, by looking at “official” and “vernacular” forms of memorialization, including monuments, roadside crosses, temporary memorials, reenactments, museum exhibits, etc. We seek to understand not only what public acts of memorialization look like and who gets to define them, but how memory is contested or reshaped by such practices. Along the way, we ask how controversies of memory are related to competing ideas of nation, citizenship and patriotism; debates about what happened in the past; problems of cultural representation and identity; and shame and erasure of memory. This exploration focuses on “crises of memory” that have fundamentally altered American practices of remembrance. Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 1072 Focus: Writing Loss, Legacy and Memory
This course involves student writers in acts of remembrance as both a complement to the linked fall semester course Memory and Memorialization in American Culture and as an introduction to a central motive of writers in all traditions: art as a means of transcending trauma and loss, large and small. Writing in multiple genres, from essay to poetry, from reportage to memoir, we explore ways in which writers literally “come to terms” with the past, including idealization, justification and re-interpretation. The course stresses how individual experience, especially loss, can move from private meaning to public when writers can convey their experience as representative of others. It also explores the authority one assumes in writing when speaking for others. Travel to sites such as Washington, D.C., affords students an additional and exciting means of studying collective memory in a broader context that includes observing the interaction of a present-day audience. In addition to documents from field trips, course texts include examples from various genres, as well as selected readings from cultural critics and writers about writing. Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 108 Focus: Constantinople, Queen of Cities: Part I
Constantinople, the capital of the Byzantine Empire (330 to 1453), was among the greatest marvels of the medieval world. Renowned for its wealth and sophistication, the city was one of the largest urban centers in the premodern era and the model that cultures both east and west sought to surpass. In this course, we explore the evidence behind this reputation, studying the architectural, social and artistic history of the Queen of Cities. Although renamed Istanbul when conquered in 1453 by the Ottomans, its fame did not fade, and some of its most impressive monuments preserved today, stand as witness to the remarkable achievements of Byzantine culture. Credit 3 units. A&S: TH, CD A&S IQ: HUM, LCD BU: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 1081 Focus: From Constantinople to Istanbul
This course is a continuation of the freshman Focus program, Constantinople, Queen of Cities, and is limited to those students who are completing the sequence. It is a requirement for students participating in the summer study trip to Constantinople (Istanbul). This 1-credit course expands upon material covered during the fall semester by considering the post-Byzantine history of Constantinople, both under Ottoman rule and in the modern era. Requirements for this companion course include regular attendance, active participation, and the presentation of two oral reports on site in Istanbul, which are based on fall and spring semester research projects. Credit 1 unit. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 1503 Workshop for the Global Citizenship Program
This workshop, which is restricted to and required of participants in the Global Citizenship Program (GCP), is a companion to the core GCP fall course. The workshop will foster critical thinking and push students to explore the significance of cultural and social identities in a globalized society. In addition to the assigned course content, students will also examine their own mutual interests, build relationships and develop valuable skill sets as they collaborate together to plan an event of global concern for the campus community. Same as L97 IAS 1503 Credit 1 unit.

L61 Focus 160 Focus: Going Dutch: Art, Science and Discover in Amsterdam and Beyond
The Netherlands, despite its geographical scale, was once the most powerful and culturally thriving country in Europe. In the 17th century, the great metropolis of Amsterdam and the surrounding cities of Leiden, Delft and Haarlem burgeoned as sites of global trade, scientific innovation, and unprecedented achievements in art. The paintings of Rembrandt van Rijn, Frans Hals, Johannes Vermeer and many others embody the fascinating contradictions of a culture caught between Calvinist morals and licentiousness, lucrative commerce and fears of worldly vanity, botanical learning and the tulip craze. The remarkable invention that characterized the Dutch Golden Age led also to the microscope, the fire engine, modernized anatomical dissection, even the founding of New York City. This course surveys the history of the 17th-century Netherlands through the lens of its art and intellectual achievements, ultimately reflecting upon its legacy today. Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch: HUM Art: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 1701 Focus: The Italian Renaissance I
The Renaissance was one of the most dynamic and influential periods in the history of Western Europe. The Renaissance is replete with contrasts and contradictions, preserving numerous aspects of medieval thought at the same time as developing dramatic new ways of viewing, understanding and expressing the world. While these factors affected all of Europe to different degrees, it was in Italy that these trends first appeared and from which they traveled north, east and west, to influence profoundly the entire continent. This course concentrates on the Italian Renaissance in an effort to gain a panoramic view of its many aspects and the essential characteristics of each subject studied. The fall term examines geography and political entities; wars and political realignments; forms of government and their rulers; social life; manufacturing, trade and economics; the humanist movement; philosophy; the Catholic Reformation and natural sciences and medicine. The spring term concentrates on the arts: architecture, painting and sculpture, literature and music. Prerequisite: admission into The Renaissance Focus program. Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: HUM EN: H
L61 Focus 1702 Focus: The Renaissance: An Introduction II
The Renaissance saw a fundamental shift in the character and functions of the arts in Western society. This course examines the basic aesthetics and features of Renaissance literature (poetry, epic poetry, drama), plastic arts (painting, illumination, sculpture, bas-relief), architecture (both sacred and secular) and music (both sacred and secular, including dance). We examine the role of perception in the arts, the relationship of that perception to humanistic, religious and political thought, and the various ways in which the arts communicate that relationship.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH

L61 Focus 1703 Focus: The Republic of Venice I
The Venetian Republic survived intact from its beginnings in the fifth century AD to the Napoleonic conquest of 1797. This course will introduce students to the unique social, cultural and artistic life of the maritime Republic known as the Serenissima. The fall semester will explore the governmental, social, religious and economic foundations of the republic together with its artistic and architectural expressions up to 1520. The spring term will trace the height of Venice’s prosperity and artistic achievements through the painting of Titian, Tintoretto and Veronese, the architecture of Sansovino and Palladio, and the music of Monteverdi and Vivaldi, followed by the city’s gradual decline to the touristic mecca and playground for the wealthy of Europe it became toward the end of its existence as an independent state.
Credit 3 units. A&S IQ: HUM BU: IS EN; H

L61 Focus 1704 Focus: The Republic of Venice II
This course will continue the study of Venetian history and culture, from the mid-16th century to the fall of the Republic to Napoleon in 1797. In addition to studying the political and economic life of the later Republic, we will focus on the impact of various social and cultural issues, such as the Reformation and the Inquisition, early Venetian feminist writers, Carnival and masking, tourism, gambling, courtesans, and the diversity of social life and activities. In the arts we will consider such subjects as Renaissance and Mannerist architecture, painting by Titian, Tintoretto, Tiepolo, Canaletto and Francesco Guardi, music by Claudio Monteverdi and Antonio Vivaldi, comedies by Carlo Goldoni, and the development of opera theater and the opera business.
Credit 3 units. A&S IQ: HUM Arch: HUM Art: HUM BU: IS EN; H

L61 Focus 1910 Focus: Phage Hunters
A research-based laboratory class for freshmen. Students join a national experiment organized by HHMI, with the goal of discovering the bacterial virus known as the phage in a local phage. Laboratory work focuses on learning computer-based tools for genome analysis followed by annotation and comparative analysis of the genome of a phage (bacterial virus) that was isolated fall semester at WU and sequenced over winter break. Prerequisites: high school courses in biology, chemistry and physics, at least one at the AP or International Baccalaureate level; permission of the instructor. Limited to 40 students; preference given to those completing Biol 191 Phage Hunters. One-hour lecture, one-hour discussion and three hours lab per week.
Credit 3 units. A&S: NS A&S IQ: NSM Arch: NSM Art: NSM BU: SCI

L61 Focus 1920 Focus: Phage Bioinformatics
A research-based laboratory class for freshmen. Students join a national experiment organized by HHMI, with the goal of exploring the bacterial character of a local phage. Laboratory work focuses on learning computer-based tools for genome analysis followed by annotation and comparative analysis of the genome of a phage (bacterial virus) that was isolated fall semester at WU and sequenced over winter break. Prerequisites: high school courses in biology, chemistry and physics, at least one at the AP or International Baccalaureate level; permission of the instructor. Limited to 40 students; preference given to those completing Biol 191 Phage Hunters. One-hour lecture, one-hour discussion and three hours lab per week.
Credit 3 units. A&S: NS A&S IQ: NSM Arch: NSM Art: NSM BU: SCI

L61 Focus 201 Focus: Nationalism and Identity: The Making of Modern Europe
This course is a reading-and-discussion seminar designed for students interested in an interdisciplinary program in history, literature and language. It covers a series of major topics in French and German history, beginning with the French Revolution and culminating in the origins of World War I. The unifying theme is the concept of the nation and development of nationalism. Major topics include Napoleon, the revolutions of 1848, and German unification; related topics include such issues as women and the concept of the nation. The seminar reads texts such as the Abbe Sieyes’ What is the Third Estate? (in translation) and review excerpts from such films as Abel Gance’s Napoleon and Jean Renoir’s La Marseillaise.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: IS

L61 Focus 202 Focus on French Nationalism 1789-1914: The Formation of French National Identity
Exploration of cultural expressions and depictions of nationalism in France 1789-1914 with emphasis on literary forms — poetry, prose, drama — against the background of social and political change and in particular against the background of Franco-German relations. Course includes investigation of the uses of gender to construe the nation; founding myths; the roles of men, women and the family in the nation; the importance of language and other ethnic markers; the creation and function of heroes; versions of the past; cultural stereotyping of the French vs. the German, as well as contemporary critiques of nationalism. Taught in English. Course should be enrolled as 3 units, or 4 units with trip. Corequisite: each student should enroll in the level of French language instruction that follows their fall course.
Credit variable, maximum 4 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 203 Focus on German Nationalism 1789-1914: The Formation of German National Identity
Exploration of cultural expressions and depictions of nationalism in Germany 1789-1914 with emphasis on literary forms — poetry, prose, drama — including other symbolic modes of expression, against the background of social and political change and in particular against the background of Franco-German relations. Includes investigation of the use of gender to construe the nation; founding myths; the roles of men, women and the family in the nation; the importance of language and other ethnic markers; the creation and function of heroes; versions of the past; cultural stereotyping of the German vs. the French; as well as contemporary critiques of nationalism. Course should be enrolled as 3 units, or 4 units with trip.
Credit variable, maximum 4 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Art: HUM

L61 Focus 206 Workshop: Readers as Writers
In the Readers as Writers workshop, we consider the role of influence and revision in the making of a poem. While examining a wide range of poetry in both finished and draft form, we study the ways in which influence and revision bring a poem into existence and reshape its form on the page. Exercises are designed to guide the writing process, using the readings to inspire and inform our own creative work. Guiding texts include, but are not limited to, those being studied in Writers as Readers, which must be taken concurrently.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Art: HUM BU: HUM

L61 Focus 2061 Workshop: Readers as Writers
In the spring Readers as Writers workshop, we move from the consideration and creation of poetry to the consideration and creation of prose. As a transition between the two genres, we begin by reading and writing the prose poem, a hybrid form that borrows from and is influenced by both genres. We move from there toward a progressive lengthening of line and narrative as we read and write flash fiction, short stories, personal essay and memoir. Guiding texts include, but are not limited to, those being studied in Writers as Readers, which must be taken concurrently.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 2070 Writers As Readers
Writing as a creative response to reading is examined through this seminar. Just as modern students are students of literature, so too were writers in the past students of their literary heritage. How did major English writers — Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, Austen, Keats and Yeats, among others — respond to what they read? Students consider the ways these writers resisted, embraced and repudiated the efforts of those who had written before them. Readings and discussions elicit each student’s own creative and critical responses. As happened in the past, the reading writer is answered by the writing reader.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 208 Focus: Global Culture and the Individual: Intercultural Skills for the 21st Century
The emergence of a global society continues to create vast changes in all cultures. How do these changes impact our lives and the way we view ourselves and our place in the world? Students in this Focus seminar use the study of language, culture and literature to examine how they, as individuals, relate to self, community and culture. Students also learn to apply the skills needed to live and work most effectively within the university community and beyond.
Credit 3 units. A&S: SS A&S IQ: SSC Art: SSC BU: IS EN: S

L61 Focus 2081 Focus: Global Culture and the Individual: Intercultural Skills for the 21st Century
During the spring semester, we continue to find ways to practically apply the skills and knowledge gained during the fall semester. The course is built around projects proposed by students at the end of the fall semester. By the end of the academic year, students have gained a greater understanding of how they relate to, and affect, one another within their own immediate environment, their community, their culture and beyond. The companion course for this Focus seminar continues as a two-semester language sequence at the student’s level of proficiency as determined by a placement test.
Credit 3 units. A&S: SS A&S IQ: SSC Art: SSC EN: S

L61 Focus 209 Focus: Wild Ethics and Environmentalism
Fierce political battles are being fought over the preservation of wilderness, partly because wilderness means and has meant so many different things. European settlers saw the New World as a “howling wilderness,” redeemable only by human settlement and improvement. To Native Americans this same land was home, not wilderness. As the frontier of settlement moved west, attitudes toward the wild began to change, with Henry David Thoreau stating “In wildness is the preservation of the world.” This course studies the changing experiences of wilderness and the wild through history, grappling with insights derived from literature, art, philosophy and ecology. The spring semester includes a study of wolf reintroduction in Yellowstone National Park, including a spring break trip to Yellowstone to study wolves in the wild.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 2091 Focus: Wild Ethics and Environmentalism
Fierce political battles are being fought over the preservation of wilderness, partly because wilderness means and has meant so many different things. European settlers saw the New World as a “howling wilderness,” redeemable only by human settlement and improvement. To Native Americans this same land was home, not wilderness. As the frontier of settlement moved west, attitudes toward the wild began to change, with Henry David Thoreau stating “In wildness is the preservation of the world.” This course studies the changing experiences of wilderness and the wild through history, grappling with insights derived from literature, art, philosophy and ecology. The spring semester includes a study of wolf reintroduction in Yellowstone National Park, including a spring break trip to Yellowstone to study wolves in the wild.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 215 Focus: The Theater as a Living Art
Moving in and out of practice and theory, this Focus plan interweaves a traditional introductory acting course with discussions of dramatic theory and visits to rehearsals where directors and actors work to shape the play. Must be taken concurrently with Drama 228C. Prerequisite: admission to The Theater Focus program.
Credit 3 units. A&S: LA A&S IQ: HUM Art: HUM BU: HUM

L61 Focus 2151 Focus: Theater Topics Course
Companion course to Focus 215.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH

L61 Focus 216 Focus: The Theater as a Living Art
Continuation of the Focus program: The Theater as a Living Art. Topic varies by year, please consult Course Listings for a description of current offering. Prerequisite: admission to The Theater as a Living Art Focus Program.
Credit 3 units. A&S: LA A&S IQ: HUM Art: HUM BU: HUM
L61 Focus 2171 Focus: Women in Science
Throughout the centuries, women were interested and involved in the sciences. Their scientific contributions, however, have often been overlooked and their abilities questioned. In this year-long course, we read biographies of famous women scientists and mathematicians, in addition to scholarly articles, to examine women's involvement in science and mathematics from the 19th century to the present. We explore the ways in which women have pursued scientific knowledge, look at the cultural factors that affected them, and investigate the impact of scientific theory and social conditions on their opportunities and identities. In addition to reading about women in science, we hear a variety of women talk about their careers. Visiting lecturers may include faculty from chemistry, biology, engineering, earth and planetary sciences, medicine, physics, medical administration may visit, as well as female scientists who work in industry. This course is restricted to Women in Science Focus program participants, who must have concurrent enrollment in WGGSS 100B Introduction to Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.
Credit 1.5 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch: HUM Art: HUM
BU: BA EN: H

L61 Focus 2172 Focus: Women in Science: Contemporary Issues
Following the history of women in science that we explored in the fall semester, this class begins a discussion and analysis of current issues in gender and science. We look at the feminist critique of science and scientific objectivity before turning to women’s careers in science. Several questions are central to our inquiry: Do women “do” science differently? Could alternative science and mathematics education help increase women’s representation in fields that continue to be male-dominated like physics, engineering and computer science? How do social expectations of men and women affect career choices and retention? In addition to exploring these issues, we hear from a number of women scientists. Drawing from both the Danforth and Medical School campuses, our visitors include faculty members from chemistry, biology, engineering, earth and planetary sciences, medicine, physics, medical administration, among others, who share their reflections about women and science. This course is restricted to Women in Science Focus program participants.
Credit 1.5 units. A&S: SS, SD A&S IQ: SSC, SD Arch: SSC Art: SSC BU: BA EN: S

L61 Focus 221 Focus in Law and Society
The legal system has assumed a major role in contemporary American life, a role that locates it as an essential governing authority that articulates the general rights and restraints for American citizens. The Law and Society Focus centers its attention on a few of the social controversies that depict the changes and diversity in the present-day American social order. The seminar particularly spotlights issues that are associated with status of America’s youth and on the privileges and restraints that our legal system extends to its young people. Regular topics for our inquiry include: students’ freedom of expression, privacy in the educational environment, religion in schools, abortion rights of minor females, juvenile criminality, and affirmative action in education. Combining students’ exposure to shaping the law in the abstract with the application of the law in live controversies is an important element of the year’s experiences. Thus the first semester’s course work exclusively involves reading major opinions of the appellate courts, while the second semester’s work entails an extensive commitment to observing the adjudication of disputes in trial courts. Prerequisite: admission to the Law and Society Focus plan.
Credit 3 units. A&S: SS A&S IQ: SSC Art: SSC BU: BA, HUM

L61 Focus 222 Seminar in Law and Society
The Law and Society Focus is designed to expose students to some contemporary legal debates in American society and to expand their understanding of those issues as they are adjudicated in our legal system. We explore these current topics within the basic liberal arts tradition, which emphasizes the view that the legal system is a social instrument for seeking a “just society.” The seminar, accordingly, is an introduction to legal controversies as questions of public policies that have philosophical, social, political and economic implications, as well as legal ones. Prerequisite: admission to the Law and Society Focus plan.
Credit 3 units. A&S: SS A&S IQ: SSC Art: SSC BU: HUM EN: S

L61 Focus 2341 Focus: Italy’s Temples of Knowledge: The History and Controversies of Museums
This course investigates the history of museums in Italy and the political and ethical issues that have developed alongside the institutions themselves to the present day. Our study during the fall semester unfolds chronologically, beginning with such ancient precursors to the modern museum as the Roman House of Pompeii. We study how the museum in Italy developed from an elite, private space — the Renaissance princely studio and curiosity cabinet — for the display to a select audience of individual and family social distinction to a public center for the cultural education of the masses and for the demonstration of state prestige, i.e.: the Louvre, the Vatican Museums and the Fascist Museum of Roman Civilization. We also visit local art and history museums. The course culminates at the end of the spring semester with a trip to Italy to tour the sites we have studied throughout the year. This course is restricted to Italy’s Temples of Knowledge Focus program participants.

L61 Focus 2342 Focus: Italy’s Temples of Knowledge, Part II
This freshman Focus course divides its scope over two semesters. In the fall, students study the history of museums, and in the spring, students study the ethical, political, cultural and interpretive issues that surrounded these institutions. Students also prepare for the spring trip to Italy.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch: HUM Art: HUM BU: BA EN: H

L61 Focus 2351 Focus: Moving and Being Moved: Human Movement in Art, Culture, Sport and Health
This course investigates the significance of movement, individually and collectively, in human experience. Movement can signal a wide variety of states of being — gender, age, ethnicity, mental and physical health — in addition to its stylized expressions as social and concert dance. We use readings, discussions, lectures and correlated movement work to deepen our understanding of what and how movement communicates. The course is team-taught by members of the dance faculty and guest instructors. Concurrent registration in a dance or somatics course is recommended but not required. This course is restricted to Moving and Being Moved Focus program participants.
L61 Focus 2352 Focus: Moving and Being Moved: Further Explorations
Continuation of fall Focus program. Students continue to explore a broad range of topics. At the same time each student develops their experience of a specific movement discipline by enrolling in one of the many dance or somatic practices courses offered by Washington University. The weekly seminar meetings focus on connections between dance and other disciplines: for example, lighting and costume design for dance, arts management, movement and Native American culture, dance and literary theory that treats "the body" metaphorically. However, our weekly meeting also includes time periodically for students to share their experience in their chosen movement centered courses. In-class content continue to be supplemented by field trips and related practical applications. This course is restricted to Moving and Being Moved Focus program participants.
Credit 2 units. A&S: LA A&S IQ: HUM EN: H

L61 Focus 2431 Focus: Missouri's Natural Heritage, Part 1
Missouri's Natural Heritage is a multidisciplinary two-semester freshman Focus course. The first semester of the sequence focuses on Missouri geology, climate, archaeology and native megafauna. This provides a foundation on which to examine the ecology, restoration and management of our diverse habitats (prairie, forest, glade and stream) and the biology of our diverse plant and animal wildlife (arthropods, mollusks, fish, salamanders, lizards, birds and mammals) in the second semester. We also introduce basic concepts in biodiversity and resource management with attention to resolution of conflicts of interest. In addition to weekly lecture and discussion, students in this class visit sites across the state during three weekend camping trips and a longer camping trip during winter break. Attendance on field trips is an essential component of the course and grade. Lab fee covers transportation and meals for all field trips.
Credit 3 units. A&S IQ: NSM Arch: NSM Art: NSM BU: SCI

L61 Focus 2432 Focus: Missouri's Natural Heritage, Part 2
Missouri's Natural Heritage is a multidisciplinary two-semester freshman Focus course. The second semester of the sequence will focus on the ecology, restoration and management of our diverse habitats (prairie, forest, glade and stream) and the biology of our diverse plant and animal wildlife (arthropods, mollusks, fish, salamanders, lizards, birds and mammals). We will also apply basic concepts in biodiversity and resource management with attention to resolution of conflicts of interest. In addition to weekly lecture and discussion, students in this class will visit sites across the state during three weekend camping trips and a trip to the prairies of western Missouri during spring break. Attendance on field trips is an essential component of the course and grade. Lab fee covers transportation and meals for all field trips. Prerequisite: successful completion of the first semester of this course.
Credit 3 units. A&S IQ: NSM Arch: NSM Art: NSM BU: SCI

L61 Focus 2601 Focus: The Argentine Experience: History, Literature, Culture
How have foreigners viewed Argentina over time? What was the meaning of bloodshed among gauchos? What are the origins of tango? And at one point, one third of Argentina's population consisted of Afro-descendants — what happened to them? This Focus course helps students find answers to such questions and more. A history of Argentina from Spanish settlement to the present, focusing on the wars of independence; economic growth and urbanization; immigration; gauchos and popular culture; Juan and Evita Peron; the "Dirty War"; and the transition to democracy and neo-liberalism. The course complements an offering on Argentine Culture in the spring semester. It also provides historical background for a field trip by the students to Buenos Aires, Argentina. It covers the history of one of Latin America's largest and most important countries and gives students the chance to compare processes of cultural, political and economic development with the United States and other countries in the Americas. Prerequisite: admission to the Focus Argentina program.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM, LCD Arch: HUM Art: HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2602 Focus: Buenos Aires and the Construction of Argentine Culture
In this course, we examine the various expressions of Argentine culture that have given us gauchos, tango, Jorge Luis Borges, and one of the most prolific and honored cinematic traditions of Latin America. In particular, we explore the ways in which history and culture interact to express the experience of Argentina and Buenos Aires. We study films, popular music, dance, literature, sport and theater to gain insight into that experience. This course is part of the Buenos Aires Focus program; it includes a trip to Buenos Aires and is intended to be taken after Focus 2601.
Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch: HUM Art: HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 267 Focus: Cuban Transitions: From Colonialism to Communism
This course examines the Cuban experience from its beginnings as a Spanish colony to its independence. We emphasize happenings in contemporary Cuba and its relations to other countries. Topics studied include, among others, the Tainos, slavery, the preeminence of sugar and tobacco as an economic and cultural force, social structures, race, the "Spanish American war," the press, the military and education. We screen documentary films, examine the paintings of Wilfredo Lam and the photographs of Walker Evans, and study the contribution of music to the Cuban ethos. We concentrate on biographies and documentary films of Che Guevara and Fidel Castro. All topics studied also are put into contemporary contexts. Requirements: three short papers (four to six pages) and an oral report.
Credit 3 units. A&S: SS A&S IQ: SSC Arch: SSC Art: SSC BU: IS

L61 Focus 2671 Stranger than Paradise: Cuban Experience of the Revolution
The word “Cuba” strikes a resonant chord with many of us — a mix of curiosity, anxiety and hope — shaped by many years of controversy and stereotyping, on one hand, and myth making, on the other. Whether you want to develop an understanding of Cuban literature on and off the island, or to learn about music and dance history that led up to the Buena Vista Social Club phenomenon, this is a seminar for you. Organized chronologically and thematically as a companion course to Focus 267 Focus: Cuban Transitions: From Colonialism to Communism, it covers a comprehensive range of topics related to contemporary Cuba. Faculty with ample firsthand knowledge of Cuba and invited speakers encourage wide-ranging discussions about the interplay of such issues as the politics of race and sexuality, repression and exile, censorship and dissent. African cultural heritage and syncretic religious practices are presented as both a source of pride for Cubans and a symbol of their unique Caribbean experience. By examining a variety of ideological perspectives in prose fiction, poetry, political speeches, artwork, musical forms, personal testimonies and film, this seminar allows students to exchange perceptions across various disciplines, question myths and erase the distance between theory and context-based critical practice. Prerequisite: successful completion of the first-semester course, Focus 267.

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch; HUM Art; HUM BU: IS

L61 Focus 2811 Focus: Literary Culture of Modern Ireland
This course examines the literature of Ireland from the fall of Parnell to the outbreak of World War II. This is the period of an emerging cultural nationalism, a great efflorescence of literature in many genres, and some of the most important political, social and military events in modern Irish history. One of the remarkable things about the period is the close relationship between prominent figures in the literary and artistic world and those in the realm of politics and social change. The result was a rich cross-fertilization of ideas and attitudes that had enormous implications for the future of this embattled island nation. We explore this vital and transformative exchange by close attention to some primary texts of the period. Writers studied include: Yeats, Gregory, Wilde, Synge, Shaw, Joyce, O’Casey and Bowen.

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch; HUM Art; HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2812 Focus: Literary Culture of Modern Ireland II
This course explores the intersection of literature and culture in Ireland from the establishment of the Fianna Fail government of de Valera in 1932, through the lean years of the 1940s to ’70s, to the economic boom of the Celtic Tiger in the 1990s and beyond. To appreciate this small nation’s rocky road to a successful entrance into the European Union, economic security and national confidence, we closely read how Ireland’s rich and diverse literature casts a cold but feeling eye on its hard-earned independence and fraught nationalism. For the fiction, poetry and drama of Ireland not only mirrors but often moves the story of this nation’s growth and transformation over the decades of economic, social and political strife.

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch; HUM Art; HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2813 Focus: Literary Culture of Modern Ireland and Irish America: Irish-American Writers, Fitzgerald–Kennedy

Credit 1.5 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2814 Focus: Literary Culture of Modern Ireland and Irish America: Modern and Contemporary Irish Drama

Building on students’ coverage of the early days of Dublin’s Abbey Theatre, this segment focuses on (mostly) living Irish playwrights whose work develops familiar themes in unfamiliar ways. Brian Friel, whose long career recently was recognized by an elite council of Irish Arts, is represented by Translations and Dancing at Lughnasa. We read plays by Marina Carr, the most important Irish woman playwright since Lady Gregory, often described as “Greek” for her scorching fatalism. Continuity with Synge is evident in work by Martin McDonagh, as is his transformation of Irish stereotypes into grotesques and deep resources of dark humor. Conor McPherson’s Shining City is not yet ready to banish a ghost from a psychiatrist’s office. Other playwrights represented may include Tom Kilroy and Christina Reid. It is notable that the work of three of these playwrights was produced in New York recently and nominated for Tony awards.

Credit 1.5 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2850 Focus: The Holocaust: A European Experience

Between 1939 and 1945, Nazi troops invaded, occupied and destroyed major parts of Europe. A central aim of the Nazi project was the destruction of European Jewry, the killing of people, and the annihilation of a cultural heritage. This course seeks to deal with questions that, some 60 years after what is now known as the Holocaust, still continue to perplex. Why did Germany turn to a dictatorship of racism, war and mass murder? Why did the Nazis see Jews as the supreme enemy, while also targeting Poles, Ukrainians, Soviets, homosexuals, the Roma and the disabled? The course introduces students to issues that are central to understanding Nazi occupation and extermination regimes. Students look at survival strategies in Western Europe including emigration, resistance movements in Eastern European ghettos, local residents’ reactions to the murder in their midst, and non-European governments’ reactions.

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH, CD, SD A&S IQ: HUM, LCD, SD Arch; HUM Art; HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 2851 Freshman Seminar: Representations of the Holocaust in Literature and Film

As the Holocaust recedes into the historical past, our knowledge of the event becomes increasingly dominated by literary and cinematic representations of it. This course focuses on such depictions of the Holocaust in literature and film and raises a number of provocative questions: What does it mean to represent the horror of the Holocaust? Can one effectively depict the event in realistic terms, or do unrealistic representations work better? What happens to the history of the Holocaust when it becomes the subject of a fictional text? Who is authorized to speak for the victims? Are representations of perpetrators appropriate? What types of representations will help us to remember the Holocaust in the 21st century? We will grapple with these challenging questions by examining literary texts by American, European and Israeli authors from a range of genres, including survivor memoirs, fictional narratives, a graphic novel, drama and poetry, and a number of films that depict the Holocaust.

Same as L75 JINE 240

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Arch; HUM Art; HUM BU: BA, HUM BU: IS EN: H

L61 Focus 287 Focus: Writers As Readers Seminar

Participants in this seminar examine how writing serves as a creative response to reading. Just as modern students are students of literature, so too were writers in the past students of their literary heritage and of their contemporary literary moment. We examine how writers, both poets and novelists, responded to, elaborated on, rebelled against and paid homage to their predecessors. Among the writers we consider are Jane Austen and Henry James, Charles Dickens and Dostoevsky, Tennison and Keats, Kipling and Isaac Babel.

Credit 3 units. A&S: TH A&S IQ: HUM Art: HUM