Note: With the permission of the director of undergraduate studies, one course (3 credits) on media/film taken in another department or program at the 300 or 400 level may count toward the global media studies minor. Students should consult with their Film and Media Studies advisor or the Film and Media Studies director of undergraduate studies before enrolling in a course offered outside of the program that they hope to count toward this minor.

A total of 6 Film & Media Studies–approved units can be applied for credit toward this program from study abroad work at the 300 level or higher, which could satisfy the national cinema advanced elective requirements.

The program allows Film & Media Studies–approved transfer credits from other universities for advanced electives.

Additional Information

Elective courses change every academic year, so please visit the Program in Film and Media Studies website for current course listings.

A grade of C- or higher is required for a course to count toward the minor.

Internships and independent study do not count toward any Film and Media Studies minor.
