

Communications

The Bachelor of Science in Communications focuses on theories and applications of communications: organizational, interpersonal, cultural, political and digital. Required core courses build a foundation in communications theory, history, ethics, law, technology and business. Students also select a concentration for greater professional focus in one of the following areas: Integrated Marketing Communication, Public Relations, Applied Media Practice or Professional Writing.

The program's core courses and concentration options represent the breadth and depth associated with the study of communications, and they define this field as an important standard of a liberal arts education. The program also emphasizes integration across academic disciplines and industry functions, and it provides the opportunity to analyze and implement communications and leadership skills in a range of organizational settings, media relations roles, and social or political advocacy functions in a changing and complex media environment.

U48 Comm 203 Writing for Business Communication

Effective and appropriate written communication skills are a distinct advantage to any employee and an essential requirement for today's manager. In this course we will take a creative and active approach to increasing your knowledge of communications principles and formats as well as your ability to express yourself in a variety of written forms, including memos, proposals, presentations and reports. Communications strategy, and the importance of how the message, medium and an understanding of the audience all relate to affect communications outcomes, will also be reviewed. Prerequisite: one college-level course in English composition. Credit 3 units. UColl: OLI

U48 Comm 204 Writing for Survival

The focus of this course is clarity of expression in written documents and verbal exchanges, with an emphasis on effective communication in the workplace. Students will study and practice writing business letters, memorandums, proposals, reports, press releases, and speeches. Additionally we develop and deliver presentations using adaptive learning technology. Using writing and presentation skills acquired in the course, students will propose and develop a nonprofit organization, focusing on a strategic communications strategy for this new organization. Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 211 Introduction to Journalism

This course provides an overview of hands-on journalism skills with an emphasis on clear, accurate, and persuasive writing. Students will learn how to get the story, conduct interviews, report the story, and proofread their work. We will study and practice the art of pursuing a story, digging up and verifying facts, sorting fact from opinion, and uncovering information using principles of fairness, truth, and accuracy. As the format for news distribution varies and changes regularly, the course prepares students to use all platforms, including newspaper, television, radio, Facebook, Twitter, social media, citizen journalism, blogs, and all other formats.

U48 Comm 2111 Introduction to Public Speaking

Public Speaking is an essential skill for success in a student's professional career and in public life. This class is geared for students to succeed. The focus of this class is to develop each student's innate ability and the confidence necessary to speak effectively in public. The presentation skills we will work on are: structuring an effective speech, writing to be heard and not read, and using the voice and body successfully. Students will present an introductory speech, an informative speech and a persuasive speech.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 218 Website Design and Development

This course covers website development using the three methods that have been used since web design first began: hand-coding HTML using a text editor; building webpages using a WYSIWYG editor like Dreamweaver; and using the most modern method, a Content Management System that separates design from content while making it easy for nontechnical users to update a site. We will cover design principles, Cascading Style Sheets, server-side vs. client-side technologies, web browsers, and web servers. We will conclude the course with a brief overview of the future of web development: XHTML and XML.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 222 Principles of Reporting and Interviewing

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 234 Foundations of Communications

This course examines the dynamic field of communications, including its history, the changing state of media, and current technologies. Students also will explore the economic, social, legal, and ethical questions associated with media. The course provides a foundation for careers in marketing, public relations, advertising, politics, management, and international enterprises.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 258 Introduction to Marketing

Today's communications practitioner often functions in an integrated environment that includes marketing, advertising, and public relations. This course will provide an introduction to concepts and practices used in strategic marketing. With the aid of case studies, students will review the latest challenges and solutions faced by some of today's leading marketers. In addition to covering the traditional 4 "P's" of marketing — product, price, place, promotion — the course will focus on understanding the customer's connections to the product along with the technologies that make that possible. Upon completion of this course, students will acquire a basic understanding of the strategies needed to create a comprehensive marketing plan. Recommended for the Liberal Arts and Business (LAB) Certificate.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 260 Marketing Communications

An introduction to advertising, public relations, and promotions and how they influence communications, journalism, and mass media. Students explore each of the "three sisters" of marketing and how they are used to build integrated marketing programs. Specific tools, including special events, direct mail, sponsorship, and press materials, will be discussed. In addition, the class will examine current and memorable marketing campaigns, view new technologies, and learn techniques and trends from professionals in the marketing field.

U48 Comm 261 The Story of Murder

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 262 Integrated Strategic Communications

Strategic communication programs enable organizations to accomplish business goals by building and maintaining trusted relationships with their most important communities. A strategic communication plan includes clear and measurable objectives, is based on positioning that clearly differentiates the organization, and takes advantage of appropriate and effective tactics.

This course provides an overview of all aspects of strategic communication and how they relate to each other in corporate, agency and not-for-profit environments. It covers the critical concepts needed to manage diverse communication disciplines — including marketing, branding, advertising, public relations, promotions, graphic design, traditional and new media. This course provides the foundation in theory and practice required by today's business executives and professional communicators to create and manage successful programs, using all available strategic communication techniques.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 280 Using Everyday Technology

This course provides an overview of key computer technologies that are useful in business and at home. Topics covered include computers, the internet, networking, digital music, security, operating systems, web browsers, email, DNS, MP3, HTTP, Linux, Firefox, and BitTorrent. Additionally, we learn more creative and efficient ways of using standard office applications, such as Word, Excel, and PowerPoint, to improve work performance.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 282 Fundamentals of Public Affairs: Messaging Strategies, Public Policy and Advocacy

This course examines the relationships between the public and influential institutions, especially different levels of government and media communication networks. Students also study how changes in communications and media, including the internet, print, and social media, have influenced the field of public affairs. Related course topics include lobbying, publishing, and entertainment, their interface with political, economic, and social issues, and their influence on the work of public affairs professionals. We also will analyze how changes in the media impact international communication, and how these influence our understanding of other cultures, regions, and countries.

U48 Comm 306 Digital and Content Marketing

Students in this course will learn how to incorporate a strategic digital marketing plan into broader marketing strategies in best practices organizations. Studying how content marketing converts interested buyers into customers, we will learn and practice the four E's of content marketing — educate, engage, encourage, and embrace repeat customers — and study essential digital marketing skills and practices such as inbound marketing and website search engine optimization (SEO). We also look closely at successful email marketing strategies and how they optimize the website conversion funnel, all along learning and using reliable data analytical tools such as Google analytics. Students will be able to connect and fully understand the relationship between a company website, marketing strategy, current and prospective customers, and an effective inbound marketing program.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 308 Making the Cut: Editing Digital Video

This course introduces students to video editing: reducing hours of recorded video to compelling moments, creatively weaving together the best parts to attract and hold viewers. Students will use supplied video material to learn how to guide the viewer's attention, build suspense, and inform the audience. We will also learn tricks to fix common mistakes made in the field and explore higher-level production methods, such as color-correction and picture in a picture technique, to achieve a professional look. By the end of the course, students will be proficient in simple edits to create the equivalent of a basic short narrated video package or promotional video. Students will also learn to improve videography skills by seeing what works in the editing suite.

Credit 3 units. UColl: OLH

U48 Comm 3090 Social Media for Public Relations

This class introduces students to the various ways social media may be used in the practice of public relations and marketing. We use the traditional steps of research, strategy, and measurement and apply them to online campaigns. We learn about various emerging social media technologies--including blogs, wikis, Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn--and how they have changed the world of PR and marketing.

U48 Comm 318 Advanced Website Design and Development

This course focuses on one of the most important parts of Web development: Cascading Style Sheets (CSS), which allow developers to set the formatting and positioning of content in webpages. We will cover topics such as CSS selectors, media-specific styles, animation, navigation, layouts with Flexbox and Grid, and lightboxes. We will also take an in-depth look responsive web design via Bootstrap and other frameworks. Prerequisites: U48 Comm 218 or instructor permission.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 3240 Intercultural Communication

This course is designed to further students' sensibility toward cultural variables and to cultivate their practical skills in managing cultural diversity in everyday life and business. Our interrogation focuses on how cultural variables affect the thought, behavior, value systems, the transmission and interpretation of messages, and characteristics of interpersonal and cross-cultural communication. We learn key concepts in this field (verbal and non-verbal communication, individualism and collectivism, stereotypes and ethnocentrism, etc.) and issues of particular concern in the current world (inter-ethnic/racial relations, and intercultural communication in classrooms, medical care, and international business, etc.).

U48 Comm 383 Politics of Encryption: Snowden, Surveillance, and the Fourth Amendment

In 2013 Edward Snowden disclosed the existence and extent of worldwide government surveillance, leading to important debates about encryption, surveillance, and control. This course uses the implications of Snowden's revelations as a takeoff point to explore the politics of encryption. Topics include encryption and secure communications, the use of encryption by terrorists and criminals, United States and international laws concerning encryption, and the clash between businesses like Apple and U.S. intelligence agencies.

Credit 3 units.

U48 Comm 385 Digital Communications Analytics

For the last quarter century, organizations, companies and brands have entered into an increasingly evolving world of digital communications, offering unbridled opportunities to reach and engage their key stakeholder audiences. This course delves deep into how to uncover and utilize data analytics and their related insights to better understand, plan and optimize communications within digital channels and platforms. It goes into detail on how the digital ecosystem has evolved and is still evolving due to technological advances, regulatory actions, and other cultural impacts. It explores how to use digital data to better understand audiences and their behavior as well as for specific marketing and communications objectives, such as launching a new product and planning for a crisis.
